

I'm concerned that too few companies have a controlling interest in the available newspapers, radio and TV stations, and magazines. In the public interest of assuring competition, diversity of content and viewpoint, and in providing a local public service function, I feel the number of media outlets that any one company can own in a single market should be lowered. The current limit is too liberal, and allows too few companies to dominate our media.